Helsinki, To-day. Following their decision to blockade the coasts of Finland, the Russians have asked all foreign ships to leave Finnish ports by noon to-day.

It is doubted here whether the Russians will find it possible to put the blockade into practice, as Finland possesses 1,200 miles of coastline and, with ice on the way, it will be difficult to patrol the seas.

In spite of advice to leave from the Nazi authorities, it is now known that the majority of German residents in Finland have chosen to stay.

CHOICE DINNERS

London, November 18. Aberdovey, the North Wales townwhich was the first reception area in Britain to provide communal meals, is credited with giving a lead to the Government. Meals of Aberdovey cost only 21/2d. When Mr. Kenneth Lindsay, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education, announced in Parliament that the Government are to pay the overhead charges for communal meals he asserted that a really good hot dinner could be produced from 21/2d. to 4d.

His figures are believed to be based on the Aberdovey scheme.

HOW IT IS DONE

Many people have inquired what the Aberdovey centre can give for 2½d. Yesterday Miss Allday, canteen supervisor, gave the News Chronicle the menus for the past week.

Here they are:
Friday (Nov. 10): Corned beef, CARROLL mashed carrots, potatoes, boiled ginger pudding, custard.

Saturday: Minced meat, lentils, onions, potatoes, chocolate shape.

Sunday: Cold roast beef, pickled cabbage, potatoes, fruit salad, custard. Monday: Stewed rabbit, carrots, onions, potatoes, boiled jam pudding, custard.

Tuesday: Herrings, potatoes, stewed apples and rice pudding.

Wednesday: Sausage and mash, date and treacle pudding.

Thursday: Mince, meat, carrots, onions, potatoes, cornflour pudding and jam.

Yesterday: Vegetable stew, apple tart, custard.

COST DEDUCTED

A circular on the subject of communal meals will be issued early next week by the Board of Education.

Overhead charges will be met by the Government. By cooking in such quantities it is officially announced, a good meal can be supplied for between resemblance he bears in this character 21/2d. to 4d.

the money paid to householders.

DAILY

A redistribution of billeting is also suggested by the Minister.

Householders who accepted the burden of billeting "may not unreasonably hope to be relieved of it, at least temporary", he points out.

The suggestion is that to afford each householder a period of relaxation, an arrangement might be made with a neighbour to take over one or more children month by month in turn.

Without attempting to forecast the for evacuees in reception areas time when it will be safe for those evacuated to return, adds the circular, the Government consider that the plans of local authorities should be based on the assumption that evacuees should remain in the receiving areas during the approaching winter.

BROTHER OF

The management of the Gloucester Hotel announce that they have engaged for a short season the famous dance team "Duo Passianos," Conchita and Billy Carroll, for such are the individual names of the "Duo Passianos" who will make their first-appearance to-night.

U.S. NOTE TO BRITAIN

Stringent, Or Mild, According To Viewpoint

VIEW CANNOT TWO WAY BLOCKADE WITH EQUANIMITY

Washington, To-day. THE TEXT OF THE United States Note to Britain was published last night and follows the lines forecast in reserving the rights of the United States under international law in connection with the British two-way blockade of Germany.

The Note declares that the maintenance of the integrity of international law cannot be tool strongly emphasised at a time when the tendency towards disrespect of such law is threatening the security of peace-loving nations.

The British order, if applied literally, would subject to diversion to British ports American ships found carrying goods of German origin and ownership, regardless of the place of lading or destination and regardless of the ownership of the goods at the time the vessel is intercepted.

The Note draws attention to the combat area under the Neutrality Act prohibiting United States ships from engaging in commerce within certain limits.

It adds that consequently interfering with justification for American vessels on the grounds of a breach of the blockade can hardly arise.

LEGITIMATE ACTIVITIES

A measure directed by one belligerent against another may not rightfully be carried to the point of enlarging the rights of belligerent over neutral vessels or otherwise sence from the Colony of Mr. Katsuo welfare organisations. DEFENCE COSTS TO COLONY

The Colony's September financial statement reveals that while receipts continue to exceed those in the comparable periods of last year, expenditure has risen sharply, as the result principally of defence measures.

Revenue in the month totalled $2,-695,294 as compared with $2,496.197 in September last year. Duties at $915,-696 for the month brought in a large proportion of the increase. Duties in the first nine months of the year realised $7,766,694 against an estimate for the whole year of $8,370,000.

K.C.R. receipts were down from $235,000 in September last year to $49,000, but this drop was compensated for by substantial increases in receipts from licences, fees of court, and Post Office.

On the expenditure side, charitable services accounted for $149,722 as against $36,242 in September last year, H.K.V.D.C. for $247,730 against $18,651 last year, and A.R.P. for $84,-516 against $2,049 last year.

The Colony's surplus balance is reduced to $15,986,508.

Nazi Government Puzzles Over Queerest "Mystery"

HOMILY TO NEUTRALS

CANNOT UNDERSTAND LACK OF WORLD SYMPATHY! **

London, To-day.

THE NAZI GOVERNMENT, through the official news agency, has issued a long homily to neutral states, in which it complains of the lack of sympathy for Germany. The neutral states, says the commentary, have always been faithful supporters of the League of Nations, yet show a lack of enthusiasm for National Socialism,

Since the outbreak of war, the statement goes on, the neutral states have displayed anything but a benevolent attitude to German interests.

"Scandinavian journalists and politicians have assisted the British warmongers in forcing the war on the German people!" announces the statement.

Coupled with this is a denial that the German Government is responsible for the Soviet invasion of Finland.

"MOSCOW MIGHT"

At the same time, an article appears in the "Frankfurter Zeitung" which admits that when the Nazi Government entered into its agreement with the Soviet Union it realised that Moscow might "take the opportunity to achieve her national aims."

There was not, however, says the paper, any special understanding about how far the Russian aims might go.-Reuter.

London, To-day. THE 50 PER CENT. rise in a British exports in November means a further addition to the strength of the Allied financial position, which is already very strong.

Italy's position in Southeast Europe has already suffered much at the hands of Germany and the prospect of a new and still more dangerous rival cannot be welcome. With this in mind she is endeavouring to improve relations between Hungary and Rumania and to remove any suspicions that may still linger about her own ambitions in the Balkans. Soon after the war began Italian troops were withdrawn from the Greek frontier of Albania, and it is believed that a non-aggression pact will shortly be signed between Italy and Greece. If successful-these aims will certainly benefit Italy, but they are not inconsistent with British and French interests. So long, indeed, as Italy adheres to her present policy of strict neutrality her efforts will be welcomed in this country.—"Manchester Guardian."

The alliance with Hitler has eased the position of the Red Army in the Far East. In addition, the alliance makes it possible for Moscow to advance together with Germany into Asia with the purpose of striking a blow at the colonial empires in their most vulnerable spots.

Only those who do not understand the psychology of bolshevism can believe that Stalin is playing a double game with Hitler, that he will return to the support of democracy — i. è., that he will abandon the game which he had so long been preparing at the very moment when the greatest possibilities are opening before him.— Kerensky, in the "New York Times."

TRIUMPH OF THE TANKS: VICTORY AT CAMBRAI RECALLED

IN A THICK MIST at 6.20 a.m. on November 20, 1917, three brigades of British tanks, numbering 381 fighting and 98 administrative armoured vehicles, set out across noman's land on an adventure that was to be the beginning of an era in the history of war. Next day bells were ringing all over London to acclaim a first-class victory.

The 3rd and 4th Army Corps, led by the tanks, had penetrated within 12 hours to a depth of five miles on a six-mile front opposite the town of Cambrai.

Casualties were light, less than 4,000, the Hindenburg line had been broken, and before our victorious men lay open country ready to be exploited by the waiting cavalry and the reserves.

The Third Battle of Ypres had resulted in so great a penetration of the enemy defences only after bitter fighting during the whole of August, September, and October, at a cost of well over £50,000,000 in artillery ammunition alone and with a terrible casualty list.

The joy-bells were premature. There were no reserves and nothing could be done to make capital from an astounding success, but the Tank Corps had shown a new way to victory and had established an ascendancy over the enemy which it kept, and shared afterwards with its French comrades, until the end of the War. The anniversary of Cambrai is being celebrated to-day by all units of the Royal Tank Regiment at home and oversea.

CHILDREN WHO WON'T EAT

There's nothing so wearing for a mother as a child who won't eat well. Usually such a child is the "nervy" highly-strung type. He picks at his food, looks pale and loses weight.

Coaxing won't improve matters. Child specialists everywhere recommend Horlicks for these "nervy" children with faded appetites.

The reason is that Horlicks not only builds bone and muscle, but it stimulates their appetites for the foods they need. In a remarkably short time they get strong, healthy, full of life and "go." And children love the taste of Horlicks. Get Horlicks to-day.

There is, however, no justification for supposing that these methods could be used successfully in the present war, even supposing that the defences of the "West Wall" were penetrated over a wide front. In Abyssinia the mobility of the Italian light tanks was very useful, but they did not encounter any serious anti-tank defence. Their crosscountry performance was not good.

In Spain the German and Italian light tanks did not give a very good account of themselves. They encountered strong defences which the Nationalists had not sufficient artillery to neutralize. They were armed with machine-guns only and had little true hitting power.

SATISFYING INEXPENSIVE

'ECONOMIC COVENTRY' FOR GERMANY

(By A SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE)

Ministry of Economic Warfare, that fourth arm of the national offensive, being housed in the London School of Economics, the breeding ground of so many economists.

The tall and youthful-looking Minister, Mr. Ronald H. Cross, with his gentle courtesy, hardly gives one at first sight the idea of a stern and unbending economic warrior. Only when one persuades him to talk of the manifold activities of his Ministry does one begin to grasp the inexorable strangle-hold which, through the medium of the Royal Navy, has been established on the trade of Germany.

"In one sense economic warfare' is perhaps a misleading term," Mr. Cross told me, "for every one of our war activities has its economic aspect, and the Ministry of Economic, Warfare certainly does not attempt—to run the whole war. Our main object is to ensure that essential supplies do not reach Germany."

HOW IT WORKS

"Much the same job as the Ministry of Blockade in the last war?"

"Yes. Much of the work of the Ministry consists of an examination of all ships and cargoes brought or putting in to the contraband control bases and ports. We have an elaborate system of determining whether or not there is prima facie evidence of goods being destined for Germany, but I am sure that you will realise that I ought not to describe this in too much detail. "Broadly, we take into account not only the normal imports of the neutrals adjacent to Germany, but also what we know of the consignor or consignee of each particular cargo. The manifest of every ship entering a contraband control base or passing through a port is reviewed by several sections of the Ministry of Economic Warfare, each section working from its own particular angle; the comments of all these sections are then laid before the Contraband Committee, which meets daily and decides what ought to be done about every item in every cargo.

"Innocuous items are released. Items in respect of which there is evidence that they are destined for Germany are seized and brought in due course before the Prize Court. Doubtful items are detained pending further inquiry.

THE DWINDLING STREAM

"The British Contraband Control has in the first ten weeks of the war detained more than 427,000 tons of commodities which otherwise would have reached the enemy. But it is important to remember that this is not the sum total of Germany's loss. must not be assumed that she has had the tonnage represented in the difference between this and her normal imports. That has been stopped. These figures merely represent what the shippers have tried to get through, and, though they are up to all the war. dodges they can think of, the amount is steadily decreasing.

"It can correctly be assumed that our control is daily getting more and not less efficient, yet though we stopped 70,000 tons in the first week of the war and 100,000 tons in the second, the figure has steadily declinea until last week there were only 6,500 tons to stop. We shall not get anything like the real picture until the statistics for this period of the various exporting countries are available."

ELIMINATING DELAYS

I referred to the complaints, both at detained an inordinate time.

"Those delays, so far as they are avoidable, are, I hope, a thing of the past," said Mr. C-oss. "From the outset I have held the vaw strongly that delay must be reduced to a minimum. The Ministry, of course, was a new Ministry, and naturally took a little time to settle down. Also, as British exports only to the extent of pre-I have said, the process of 'vetting' ships | venting goods being exported in such a way and cargoes is very elaborate. But we have improved our system, and delays are now greatly reduced.

Where manifests sistance to our Commercial Enquiries Secare sent in advance and proved to contain | tion if the public could be induced to apno contraband, the ship is detained only a preclate that fact, as at present they are very short time, perhaps only one day, often approached with inquiries which are though this would be a very exceptional | quite outside their scope."

There is a certain poetical fitness in the case. We need also to know the names of the actual consignces—consignments 'to order' only rouse our worst suspicions, and in actual fact such shipments made after to-morrow will be liable to seizure.

PROBLEM OF MEASURES

"The time taken to release a ship varies from a few hours to two or three weeks, or possibly even longer. It depends on the nature of the cargo. Just what the average is it would be difficult to say, but one big ship with a complicated cargo of hundreds of items on board clearly could raise any average considerably. Last week eleven ships were delayed only a few hours. Of the 94 vessels which were in the control bases two days ago only 36 had been there as long as a week. The remaining 58 had been there for at the most a few days, and some of them probably only a few

"I have referred to the advantage of getting manifests in advance. Shipowners could also expedite matters considerably if the manifests contained in every case the net weight in metric tons, after deducing the weight of the package. One section of the Ministry has so far been engaged solely on the task of converting all kinds of weights and measures into the common unit of metric tons. If this were done in the manifests this particular section of the Ministry could be dispensed with."

CAN YOU ANSWER THIS?

Glancing at the large map which covered most of one wall of the room, I suggested that the Minister and his staff must be re-learning a good deal of geography.

"That is so," agreed Mr. Cross, "but what has impressed us most is the amazing range of commodities of which some of us (other than the experts in the various commodities) had never heard-things in which we had been trading perhaps for generations and yet which are not even names to the ordinary person. That and the extraordinary range of weights and measures which I have already mentioned.

"Have you, for instance" (this with a broad smile), "ever heard of a 'tierce of hog-bungs?' I confess I hadn't until I came to the Ministry."

Mr. Cross mentioned that the Ministry are working in the closest co-operation with the French authorities. Gibraltar, for instance, is a control base, but as there are no very great facilities there for unloading cargo, vessels are often passed on to one of the French bases, and those figures, of course, do not come into the British statistics.

He referred to the negotiations taking place with neutral countries with a view to minimising the delay and reducing inconvenience to international trade, while maintaining effective contraband control, and said the Ministry are hoping to introduce at an early date the system of "havicerts" which proved so useful in the last

A "navicert" is in effect a free pass given to approved consignments the ultimate destination of which has been established as being neutral. This enables the consignment to go through subject only to formal vertification. The "navicert" saves much delay as it is given before the consignment is shipped, and if all his cargo is thus passed, the master of the ship knows that he will not have to spend precious time while inquiries are being made. In regard to the future, Mr. Cross said: "In the long run I look for a wider scope of action. I visualise Germany being placed home and abroad, that ships were being in a kind of economic Coventry. This means cutting off her trade in all directions. We might, for example, outbid her in markets where she buys, and undercut her in markets where she sells. In fact, economic warfare has a far wider scope than the mere enforcement of contraband control.

"But this Ministry is concerned with that, unknown to the exporter, they might ultimately reach an enemy destination. entirely agree that our export trade is of "Here I would say that shipowners can, the utmost importance, but it is not in

JAP. WAR OFFICE PROTEST

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Tokyo, To-day. It is understood that General Hata, the War Minister, many on the Western Front. is protesting to the Cabinet in the war budget as decided by the Finance Ministry.

It is expected that the War Office may demand the restoration of the main suppressed military credits, pointing out that the Finance Ministry's action hinders the completion of the China campaign, and endangers the fulfilment of the four-year rearmament plan approved last Spring by the Diet.

This plan aims to carry out accelerated mechanisation of the army, reinforcement of the air. force (especially in Manchurla) and the general improvement of armaments.

The War Office demands 6,000,000 yen, representing an increase of about 2,000,000 yen as compared with the current budget.

The Finance Ministry grants them only 4,400,000 yen, representing an increase of only 300,000 yen. — Havas.

It is estimated that there are now more than 30,000 recruits, but their commander, General Ladislaw Sikorski, who is also Premier of the exiled Polish Government, hopes to recruit 200,000 troops from the United States and Canada, where there are large Polish colonies.

Polish leaders say they have already recruited two divisions of 15,000 men, and are now engaged in forming three more of the same strength.—Associated Press.

I SAW A SHIP BLOWN UP

On the South-East Coast, Nov. 24.

saw the trawler-minesweeper Aragonite (315 tons) blown up by a mine off this coast last night. I watched, too, as tugs raced desperately to the ship. One of them took off the crew of fifteen. Four ratings were injured.

As I returned in a motorboat from the Italian steamer Fianona, damaged by a mine on Tuesday night, saw a column of spray jump from the Aragonite as she sped along.

The trawler seemed almost to jump out of the water with the shock, then settle down aft.

TWO TUGS RACE The crew rushed on deck and waved to two tugs attending another ship barely 400 yards away.

At first my boatman said he did not think it was a mine. "It's just a trawler blowing off steam," he said. Then we saw the two tugs racing through the water to the rescue.

The first immediately went alongside. The crew of the Aragonite scrambled aboard as best they could.

BED SCENE TO BE DELICATE "

There was a stir recently in the Lord Chamberlain's office—evacuated to "somewhere in the country." One of the censors, reading through a new play submitted to the department, had discovered that a BED figured in one of the scenes.

They phoned Mr. Brandreth, manager of the Richmond Theatre, at which the comedy. "The Best Triangles"—in contrast to the "Best Circles"

-was to be produced next week. "We cannot allow this play to go on," they told Mr. Brandreth.

"But we've fixed a West End cast, ordered the printing and made all arrangements to put the show on," the manager replied.

'We're sorry, but it can't go on," the censor said.

But Mr. Charles Landstone, the author of the play came to the rescue. He visited the Lord Chamberlain's dffice and asked them to reconsider their decision.

After a conference, they agreed to pass the play, on condition that the bedroom scene was played "with delicacy."

fall, the other tug made fast to the Aragonite and began to tow her towards the shore.

While the first raced with the injured to the pierhead, signalling for a doctor, the second tug opened out her engines in a desperate effort to save the trawler.

By the light of lanterns they brought the injured ashore and took them to hospital.

The Aragonite slowly settled down and sank.

TO-DAY'S STRANGE STORY OF REAL PEOPLE

'BLIND TOM' THE IDIOT-PHENOMENON

BY VINCENT TOWNE

A Negro Slave, on a plantation near Columbus, Ga., gave birth, about 1850, to a nearly blind, idiotic boy, Tom who at the age of 3 was sold to J. N. Berthune of Fauquier County, Va. Almost from the time he was an infant in arms the child developed wonderful genius as a mimic. He imitated the cries of animals, the call of birds and the sounds of the elements with such skill that he was soon called in to entertain the Bethune household. He was often found with his ear pressed to the wall of the house listening to the sound of the piano within, and he would sing or whistle any complicated air after hearing it but once. Once, when he was caught stealing into his master's house and imitating in undertones upon the piano-forte some melodies he had heard played during the day by others, it was discovered that the child had a wonderful musical genius.

More than $200,000 was realized from this first tour.

After J. N. Bethune had enriched himself on "Blind Tom" he had his son, John G. Bethune, appointed by the Virginia courts curator of the blind idiot's person in 1870, and from that time until his death in 1883, young Bethune exhibited the Negro phenomenon throughout the country.

"Blind Tom" had a big, uncouth, ungainly frame, and the face of an imbecile, His mannerisms at the piano were grotesque and suggested those of the trained apes that we have seen in recent years. At the conclusion of his performances, he would jump about on the stage, wildly clapping his hands for self approbation. His music was destitute of invention, but marvelously imitative. One of his feats was to play a melody with his right hand and, simultaneously, another with his left, at the same time whistling or singing a third—not merely popular airs like "Yankee Doodle" or "Sailor's Hornpipe," but the most intricate classic compositions of Bach, Chopin and Mendelssohn. Tom could play with his back to the piano-forte, could name any combination of tunes, could imitate the sound of almost any musical instrument and could deliver a complete oration in almost any foreign language without understanding the meaning of a word that he spoke.

Out of his earnings made from "Blind Tom", young Bethune, like his father, had established a snug fortune and had maintained in Kentucky a

At last, in 1912, came what was heralded as "positively his last appearance" in the death notices. On June 13, of that year, a Negro dying in Hoboken was alleged to be "Blind Tom" but upon the burial certificate his name was given as Thomas Wiggins, although during his professional career he had been known as Thomas Bethune. One account published at the time stated that he had spent his last days subsisting on charity and another that he had been cared for during his declining years by the widow of his former master.

TO-DAY'S

All interest in Ladies hockey this afternoon will be centred on the match between "Y" Ladies, champions of the Caer Clark Competition and St. Andrew's.

The champions have played three League games to date and have won each comfortably, scoring 15 goals against 2, but their forwards will not have the same scope this afternoon as the Saints can boast of a particularly stout defence.

The Saints have only been seen in the League this season but have impressed greatly in all practice games; they should fully extend the champions if they do not win.

Two good senior cricket games are on the card for this afternoon, Craigengower entertaining Civil Service and Club, Recreio.

KNOX RETURNS TO KOWLOON

("REFEREE")

Middlesex, the team that has not produced the same form twice in succession this season, meet Eastern on the Club ground this afternoon in what should be the best game of the week-end programme.

the Saints last week and are generally known to produce their best form against Chinese teams. Eastern will have to be at their best if they wish to get both points.

Kong Sin-keng, the Eastern full back from Macao, will be playing but the rest of the team is unchanged from last week. Tsang Chung-wan, their left back, who was injured last week is fit again.

St. Joseph's are 'quite pleased with their performances during November. They have not lost a game in the last four matches and have obtained six points, but it is not expected that they will beat Kowloon, even on their own ground to-day.

Bliss will be partnering Ulrich, at back, for Kowloon with Bell in the pivotal position. Williamson will lead the attack and D. Knox who has been out of soccer, will be on the left wing.
